

Where Will You Be In 2020?

People in everyday life always have to make decisions about their future. Usually, poor planning results you to steer in the wrong direction. As a middle school student in America, too many kids are dropping out of school through making wrong choices such as turning to gangs, family issues, etc. The state has mandated that 8th grade students must map out a course of their academic to professional life in order to graduate. For example, where will you be when you graduate middle school, high school, and college? Where will you be in 2020? Research possible career paths.

Convince the state that you have researched all the possible roads you can travel to reach your goal in 2020, by creating a roadmap. Your roadmap will include the various economic choices and professional decisions you will have to make to achieve your goal. These events will be represented by various traffic signs, street signs and names, buildings, people, etc. You are the creator of your own roadmap.
