I use my imagination to make up stories, games, or new ideas.  An illustration of four children sitting on the floor. A thought bubble above them shows a castle with a star and a crescent moon.
I use my hands and body safely when I play.  An illustration of two children playing on a slide. A boy is sliding down, and a girl is climbing the ladder.
I try new games, materials, or roles, even if I haven't done them before.  An illustration of four children playing with a box and toys. One girl is using a telescope, another is holding a toy, and two others are sitting on the floor.
